

Belfast

The city rises and falls like music, like breathing...Belfast is Rome with more hills: it is Atlantis raised from the sea. And from anywhere you stand, from anywhere you look, the streets glitter like jewels, like small strings of stars...However many, whatever size, it is magical.

© John McGlothlin, Dublin, Ireland, 1998. Reprinted by permission of The Bookshop Group, Ltd.

LITERARY BELFAST

